Diary of a man in despair

Having known Cardinal Pell since 1967, the author George Weigel introduces his friend's candid Prison Journal

Cardinal Pell's prison journal could never have been written. That is an obvious fact. It is a journal that was written in prison. It is a journal that was written in prison. It is a journal that was written in prison.

WHILE I COULD FIND my little voice in the world, I was not able to express my faith. I was not able to express my faith. I was not able to express my faith.

INTERVIEW

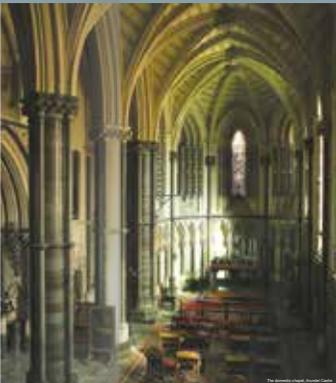

When you think of the Catholic Church, you think of St. Peter's Basilica, the Vatican, and the Pope. But what about the everyday lives of Catholics? What about the struggles and triumphs of ordinary people? This interview explores the lives of Catholics in the modern world.

Every Breath You Take

Nick Ripstone looks at Sting's Catholic imagination and the use of religion in his music

FOUNDED IN LONDON IN 1888, the Catholic Herald is one of the world's oldest and most respected Catholic news publications. Starting as a newspaper, we became a weekly magazine in 2014.

After 130 years of operating in the United Kingdom, we launched our weekly US edition in November 2018 and have quickly established ourselves as one of the leading Catholic voices in America. Today we continue to publish some of the most respected Catholic figures on both sides of the Atlantic. Our current affairs coverage is sober but never boring. We have a sense of humour but we are never frivolous.

The Catholic Herald celebrates the aesthetic and intellectual values of Catholicism. We bring a fresh style and quality to Catholic journalism, and we balance serious news coverage with expert analysis, light-hearted features, smart literary criticism and spiritual exploration.

The Herald team

Our ambition to become the 'Global Catholic monthly' will be delivered by a highly experienced media and financial team and directors with many years of entrepreneurial experience. The executive management is supported by an exceptional editorial team and executive team of many years experience in various sectors.

Sir Rocco Forte Shareholder

The largest shareholder of the Herald is Sir Rocco Forte, the multi-award winning entrepreneurial hotelier who is the founder of Rocco Forte Hotels. He takes an active and hands-on approach to his position as principal shareholder in the Herald, having served as a director for over 20 years. Board meetings are held at his London offices. Sir Rocco was educated at Catholic Downside School and Oxford.

The Anglo-Italian Forte family hotel empire comprises 13 hotels in 12 leading global destinations – from Rome to Russia, Germany to London. Sir Rocco's expertise at rolling out a global brand speaks for itself.

Brooks Newmark Shareholder

Another significant shareholder is Brooks Newmark, former Conservative MP and Government Minister. Brooks is a graduate of both Oxford and Harvard, an angel investor in several start-ups and a philanthropist who has set up a education charity based in Rwanda. Brooks has a formidable track record in successful media investments as the former UK head of Apollo International private equity.

Andy Leisinger Managing Director

Managing Director of the Herald is Andy Leisinger. Andy is a veteran of the Catholic media and publishing world and has been with the Herald for over 12 years.

William Cash Executive Chairman

The chairman and editorial director of the Catholic Herald is William Cash, the multi-award winning founder of Spear's business and culture magazine. William is a Cambridge graduate and a former US correspondent for The Times and has been named 'Editor of the Year' twice at the PPA Independent Publisher Awards. He was nominated for Writer of the Year at the 2020 Independent Publisher Awards for his Herald articles. William has written an acclaimed biography of Catholic novelist Graham Greene and brings years of publishing (digital, subscription and print) experience to the operation. He is also a shareholder in the Herald.

David Mills US Senior Editor

US Senior Editor is David Mills, former Executive Editor of US leading Catholic magazine First Things. David was the award winning editor of Touchstone magazine 2003 to 2008.

James MacGuire US Managing Editor

US managing editor is James MacGuire, James is a well known author and journalist in the US Catholic media world and the author or co-author of 14 books.

Constance Watson Assistant Editor, Books & Arts

Assistant Editor (Books & Arts) is Constance Watson, formerly with The Spectator and Literary Review. She was formerly marketing and PR director of the Herald and is the great-granddaughter of Evelyn Waugh.

100 CATHOLIC WRITERS & ARTISTS

Our list brings together the brightest and best artistic whizzes, wordsmiths, musicians and players of the last century, whose Catholic faith – or loss of it – has defined their careers. Edited by Olenka Hamilton

Living Top 10

Donna Tartt

American author Donna Tartt published her first novel, The Secret History, aged just 28 after receiving an advance of $400,000 from her publishers. Described as a 'murder mystery in reverse', the book was on the New York Times bestseller list for 17 weeks and has since become an international bestseller and cult classic, having been translated into 30 languages. A practicing Catholic, Tartt was a bookish child, born and bred in Massachusetts. She had her first short story published aged 13 and studied writing at Berea College, Vermont, where she became friends with classmate Bret Easton Ellis. Her much-awarded third and most recent novel, The Goldfinch, won her the Pulitzer prize for fiction in 2014. She is five feet tall, shy and reclusive and lives alone, and does not take part in book tours or give talks.

Lady Antonia Fraser

Lady Antonia Fraser, the author of multiple historical biographies and six novels, including a 'murder mystery in reverse', the book was on the New York Times bestseller list for 17 weeks and has since become an international bestseller and cult classic, having been translated into 30 languages. A practicing Catholic, Tartt was a bookish child, born and bred in Massachusetts. She had her first short story published aged 13 and studied writing at Berea College, Vermont, where she became friends with classmate Bret Easton Ellis. Her much-awarded third and most recent novel, The Goldfinch, won her the Pulitzer prize for

born 1959

The Scottish composer's works are permeated by his faith and include settings of the foundational liturgical and scriptural texts. He has composed several Masses, including his most recent, Mass, for Pope Benedict XVI's coronation, and Christmas Cantata, a setting of the Passion of St John and another of St Luke's Passion, and recently, he composed a version of Spem in alium after Thomas Tallis. He and his wife live in Edinburgh. He is a frequent recording artist and has been awarded a CBE in 2005. He has also been awarded a CBE in 2005. He has also been awarded a CBE in 2005.

David Lodge
born 1926

The author, playwright and literary critic is famous for his trilogy of novel satirising academia. His After a Certain Point is a satirical novel, and his other works of fiction, including Thinksong and Small World, are also satirical. He is a frequent recording artist and has been awarded a CBE in 2005. He has also been awarded a CBE in 2005.

born 1927

As Cornell, young Pynchon was described by close friends as 'very Catholic' and a regular Mass attendant who 'confessed' through to what would be a mystery. From his first novel, through many of his other works, Pynchon writes as a Catholic saint, a Jesuit priest of sorts. Staggeringly talented at the sentence level and endlessly creative, Pynchon has written of a Jesuit priest who ministers to a girl in the James Joyce novel Gravity's Rainbow, and of a global postal conspiracy that might pass through the Vatican in The Crying Game. He is also interested in books for a secular age. The author of two novels, he is also frequently collaborating with composer James MacMillan on operas, including Spem in alium and Mass. He has also been awarded a CBE in 2005.

Piers Paul Read

Paul Read has been a front-rank Catholic novelist ever since the 1960s. He abandoned Anglicanism, the setting of part of his 1969 novel Midwinter. The son of the critic Sir Herbert Read, his mother was Catholic. He once shared a flat with Tom Stoppard in Princeton. His novels such as A Man of Straw and Castles in the Wind deal with Catholic and moral themes, with the confession being in the former. He is currently working on a history of the Roman Catholic Church. He is also president of the Catholic Writers Guild and has served on the boards of various Catholic charities including the National Catholic Library.

Michael Symons Roberts

Post, novelist and feminist Michael Symons Roberts was born in Preston, Lancashire. He went on to study philosophy and theology at Oxford University, working as a journalist before joining the BBC where he became an exclusive producer and head of development for its Religion & Ethics department. He has published eight collections of poetry, the most recent in March 2015. He has won the Forward Prize, the Cuvillius Prize and the Whitbread Poetry Award. He has been described as a 'first-class poet with philosophical and metaphysical concerns' and a 'religious poet for a secular age'. The author of two novels, he is also frequently collaborating with composer James MacMillan on operas, including Spem in alium and Mass. He has also been awarded a CBE in 2005.

Martin Scorsese
born 1942

Scorsese has directed essential American films across four decades, among them Rainy Days, Taxi Driver, The Last Temptation of Christ, Goodfellas,

Must read for religious, education & charity sector leaders

Our annual survey of Catholic Leaders of Today is regarded as the definitive guide to those leaders, institutions and companies making a difference today in the worlds of philanthropy, business, finance, education, media, politics and impact investment.

The Herald is also a 'must-read' in Catholic schools, universities, seminaries and religious institutions with discounted copies for institutions. The Herald is sent to a VIP list of senior clergy, executives and influencers at leading charities, religious/social justice think tanks, print media and TV/radio organisations, heads of religious orders (USA and UK) and global NGO's.

Leading impact investment messaging

Through our unique access to religious and business leaders (both lay and clergy), politicians, charity leaders, impact investment financial advisers and media in the UK and USA, the Catholic Herald plays a prominent role as an ethical influencer, especially in the charity and financial sector where 'impact investment' and Catholic Social Teaching is now increasingly important. At a time when so much religious information and experience is consumed online – including weekly worship and sermons – the Herald is a world leading digital platform to promote charity and ethical investment messaging.

Spirited thinking since 1888

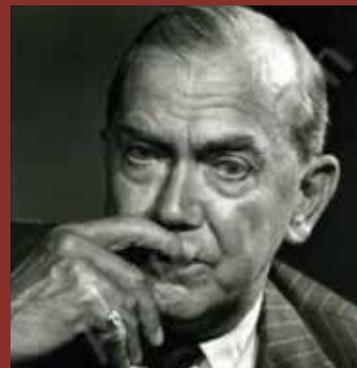

THE HERALD has been a voice of faith and reason since 1888, read by popes, cardinals, presidents and prime ministers as well as – in the 1950s – 100,000 readers a week in British churches alone.

Our intellectual pedigree includes such Catholic writers such as G.K Chesterton, JRR Tolkien, Graham Greene and Evelyn Waugh, as well as today's US and UK commentators like Sohrab Ahmari, George Weigel, Cardinal Pell, Father Gerald Murray, Matthew Schmitz, Robert Royal, Chad Pecknold, AN Wilson, John Cornwell and Piers Paul Read.

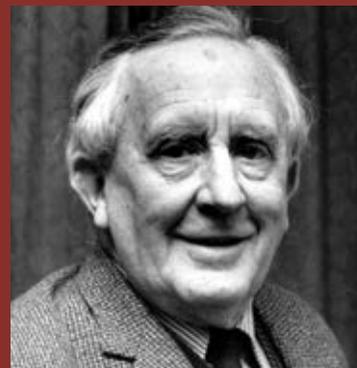

When Mrs Thatcher wanted to give an exclusive interview about her religious beliefs, she spoke to the Herald. An established and respected media brand like the Herald can act as a bold and independent cultural voice at a time the church and faithful are in turmoil.

Our heritage

THE CATHOLIC HERALD is one of the world's oldest and most trusted Catholic publications. We have over 130 years of wisdom that we bring to covering the Church today.

Our contributors over the years have included legendary writers like Evelyn Waugh and Graham Greene. While he was working on Lord of the Rings, author JRR Tolkien was an avid Catholic Herald reader and correspondent.

The Scottish Catholic Observer newspaper has, due to churches being closed in Scotland, even for prayer, been 'mothballed' since lockdown began in March 2020 as it is distributed through Scotland's 500 parishes. Although churches in England and Wales have remained open for private prayer in Scotland churches have remained closed entirely.

The Catholic Herald has broken many stories in its time, the biggest of which was the death of Pope Pius XII in 1958. With Christopher Altieri as our Rome-based correspondent, we continue to break major stories today. Our hope is that this new investment will continue to enable us to have the resources to lead the Catholic intellectual debate with offices in London, Washington and Rome.

Months before becoming British Prime Minister in 1978, Margaret Thatcher chose the Catholic Herald to talk candidly about her religious philosophy. Today, the Catholic Herald continues to set the news agenda for the church and regularly breaks world exclusives. In January 2021, for example, the Herald ran an extract from Cardinal Pell's Prison Journal with an introduction by George Weigel.

Our readers

IN 2021, digital subscriptions rose by 300%. In addition to our print/digital subscribers, and our 'controlled circulation' list of religious, impact investment fund managers and charity sector leaders, the Herald is returning to selling in selected churches and cathedrals from April 2021. Our estimated print readership for 2021 is 15,000 per monthly issue, with another 500,000 plus digital page views per month.

The Catholic Herald readership, across digital and print, is diverse. Our readers are:

- The majority are ABCs, educated and affluent
- 90% AB1 group
- 70% support a charity and donate to charities

Homelessness supplement, special report: November and December 2022

In November and December the Catholic Herald will publish a two-part homelessness special in order to raise awareness of the problem and highlight what is being done and what can be done to help those who find themselves living on the streets with nowhere to turn to. In 2019 Shelter estimated that 280,000 people were homeless in England, a figure which is expected to have risen since Covid.

Luckily, there are hundreds of charities in Britain which are devoted to getting these people off the streets and helping them to turn their lives around, be that through providing them with a roof over their heads, offering them counselling for drug and alcohol addiction or past traumas which may have led them to lose their homes, or training them up to re-enter the job market. Some of these charities offer a comprehensive service, such as Crisis, while others are more specialised, such as Art and Homelessness International or Veterans Aid. Our special report will profile 20 of the leading UK (and 10 international charities, including US) which we believe are doing excellent work in the homeless space, along with interviewing CEOs or spokespeople for these charities.

Our special report will also include a number of articles on homelessness and interviews with experts. For our November report, for example, special reports editor Olenka Hamilton interviews two formerly homeless men, who rebuilt their lives through art. Other articles will include an interview by Catholic philanthropist John Studzinski about his work with The Passage, the London-based homelessness charity started by Cardinal Basil Hume at Westminster Cathedral. We will also interview former Minister for Civil Society Brooks Newmark, who now sits on the government's Rough sleeper advisory panel, about what he has learnt in his 20 years as a homeless campaigner.

Helping those without a home Housing First, which will require hundreds of thousands of social homes to be built over the next decade, is thought by many to be the key to eradicating homelessness from this country almost if not entirely – a wonderful thought, but is the government up to it?
Olenka Hamilton

Homeless men who have spent years in prison are being helped by a charity which provides them with a roof over their heads and training to help them get back into the job market. The charity was founded in 1972 by a priest who was inspired by the work of Cardinal Basil Hume at Westminster Cathedral. The charity is now run by a layman, but still has a strong Catholic ethos. It provides a range of services, including housing, food, and training. The charity has helped many men to turn their lives around and get back into the job market. The charity is now a leading provider of services for homeless men in London.
